Global SLP/SLT Digital Literacy Practices Survey

Calling speech-language pathologists/speech-language therapists who provide language/literacy intervention with children and adolescents ages 0-18.

Do you want to be on the cutting-edge of our profession?

Help us learn about the status of digital literacy with our colleagues around the globe.

By "digital literacy" we mean "the ability to use information and communication technologies to find, evaluate, create, and communicate information, requiring both cognitive and technical skills". (Definition of American Library Association).

We live in a world where information is often consumed and conveyed in a variety of digital forms. This "new literacy," sometimes called "informational literacy", presents many opportunities for engaging communicators in unique ways; yet the problems in accessing and employing digital literacy across the globe are substantial. We want to shed light on digital literacy use by professionals in daily life outside of work and in their language/literacy intervention work with children and adolescents.

The survey will take less than 10 minutes to complete.
Responses are anonymous and will not be identified with you as an individual.
